It seems to us that they are useloss, igly, and, to some extent, injurious to the eyelight. The most beautiful feature of the horse is its eye. If it were not "hid from our gase," t would serve to denote sickness, pair, or pleasure. Many a time would a driver spare the whip on seeing the animal's imploring eye. The argument in favour of blinkers is, we believe, that horses are afraid of passing carriages. This objection, if valid, is of little weight, as such timidity would soon be overcome. We trust, now the ornal bearing rein has been cast aside, that blinkers will also be abandoned -a course which would, we feel assured, be attended with advantage to both man and horse .- Lancet.
